

Rabies Vaccination For All Dogs in City

So Many People Bitten by Dogs That Health Board Will Consider Adoption of Law Requiring Certificate of Vaccination Before Dog License May be Issued—Other Matters Before the Board.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, city health officer, called the attention of the board of health Monday evening to the fact that so many people were being bitten by dogs in Kingston that some drastic action should be taken to curb the menace of rabies. It was brought out in the discussion that followed that Corporation Counsel Harry H. Flemming had been instructed to draft an ordinance making it compulsory for all dogs in the city to be vaccinated against rabies before a license for the animal could be issued. It is expected that the ordinance will be ready for adoption shortly.

The dog question came up when Dr. Sanford made a verbal report of the work of his office during the past month. While the board of health has never lifted the muzzle quarantining for dogs in the city, no effort is being put forth to enforce it. Vaccinating dogs against rabies would be a step in the right direction.

Dr. Harold Clarke, food inspector of the board, in response to questions by members, stated that last year he had vaccinated over two hundred dogs against rabies and that none of the animals had shown any ill effect from the vaccination. He said that the rabies vaccination for dogs was in reality the human Pasteur treatment.

In other cities, Dr. Clarke said, that veterinarians working in cooperation with health boards had made the fee for vaccination as low as $2 a dog.

Certificate of Vaccination.
It was brought out that under the provisions of the proposed ordinance a certificate of vaccination would have to be presented at the time the dog owner applied for a license for the animal. Under the state law all dogs must be licensed.

Other matters brought out by Dr. Sanford in his verbal report to the board related to the varied work of the health department. He believed that more work should be done to reduce the infant mortality rate in Kingston, and said that in some of the cities in the state the health officer was a full time employee. With the salary paid by the Kingston health board no physician could afford to devote as much time to health work as should be done. He believed that the health officer and the board of health should have charge of pre-natal clinics, baby clinics, etc.

The annual conference of health officers and public health officials of the state will be held on June 25, 26 and 27, at the Grand Union Hotel at Saratoga Springs, and the board authorized Dr. Sanford, Dr. Clarke and Mrs. Mary O'Neil, the public health nurse, to attend the conference, their expenses to be paid by the board.

Action Against Delinquents.

During the past month Sanitary Inspector Nathan J. Cook reported that he had issued a number of orders to clean up outside toilets, and he was directed to turn over to the corporation counsel for action the names of the owners who had not complied with the orders. The same action will be taken against those who have not complied with orders to clean up their yards.

Bills and claims were read and audited and referred to the common council for payment.

Tariff Measure May Be Rewritten

Democratic-Republican Independent Group in Senate May Seek to Confine Revision Principally to Agricultural Products—Senate to Recede Until August 10.

Washington, June 15 (AP).—The possibility was held out to congress today that the tariff measure may be rewritten in the senate by the Democratic-Republican Independent group which twice over-rode President Hoover in the farm relief contest, and it may be rewritten with a view to confining revision principally to agricultural products.

The group has shown its strength anew in its support of the resolution of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, which proposed to instruct the finance committee to discontinue the tariff bill and limit revision to agricultural and related products, and was defeated by a margin of only one vote—39 to 38.

That vote left the Republican majority of the finance committee free today to proceed with its rewriting of the house bill as it sees fit for the next two months, but it made clear that the whole task will be gone over again after the measure is taken up in the senate.

With all of its work for the extra session completed except the pending tariff bill, the senate has voted to take a recess beginning tomorrow and carrying through to August 19. The house, having passed the tariff bill, was thus left with nothing to do while awaiting the senate's action, so its leaders were ready to agree to the recess and extend their own until the middle of September.

Overwhelming Vote for Recess.
The recess was proposed by Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, at the end of one of the hottest days of the summer, and the first overwhelming vote in the senate at this session was forthcoming. Only twelve Republicans and eleven Democrats voted against it.

The quick work of both the house and senate in enacting the appropriation of $151,000,000 asked by Mr. Hoover to carry out the new farm relief act assured the recess. Within a few hours after the President had submitted the estimate for the appropriation yesterday, the amount was available—one of the speediest legislative transactions involving such a sum in many a day.

The Borah vote shows what a contest is in prospect when the tariff bill does get before the senate. Only seven Democrats voted against the Idahoan while thirteen Republicans joined the Democrats in support of his resolution.

Arrest Motorists At Saugerties

Four Kingston men were among two dozen or more arrested by the Saugerties police and State Troopers over the week end for various violations of the law.

John Witkowski and Thomas Long were arrested with several others by Troopers at Centerville, near Saugerties, Sunday morning, charged with fighting and disorderly conduct. They will be given a hearing this evening at Saugerties. Henry Osterhout and Ruben Serakoff were arrested by State Troopers at Byrnes' Corner and Malden, respectively, charged with reckless driving. Osterhout paid $5 fine and Serakoff, $10.

George Wirthum will be heard in children's court, this city, on a charge of operating a truck without a license or plates. He was arrested by Troopers George and Andrew Kline.

Most of the arrests made were for traffic violations and fines ranging from $5 to $50 imposed. Ole Johnson of Richmond Hill, N. Y., drew the heaviest penalty meted out by Police Justice Charles H. Bennett of Saugerties, having to pay $50. He also had his chauffeur's license suspended.

Michael LeChance of the Central House, Quarryville, was arrested Sunday morning by Captain Richter of the Saugerties police and Trooper Andrew Kline on a charge of maintaining a disorderly house. He gave cash bail of $25 and was released for a hearing this evening at Saugerties.

New Contest Over Debenture Plan

Senator Norris Presents Issue Again by Amendment to Tariff Bill—Lively Time Expected—Farm Board's Action May Affect Contest.

Washington, June 15 (AP).—The warm late summer and early fall days will bring to Congress a second contest over the export debenture plan of farm relief which is expected to be even more intense than the first.

The issue has been formally presented again by the introduction of an amendment by Senator Norris, Nebraska Republican, to put the debenture plan in the tariff bill, and unless all signs fail a lively time will be had before it is disposed of.

The Norris proposal is practically the same as the one finally torn out of the farm relief bill by the insistence of President Hoover and the House of Representatives, and the indications are that it may carry much weight in shaping the general makeup of the tariff bill. Debenture advocates have reprisal measures against some of the schedules in the tariff act seriously in mind if their proposal is again objected to.

At the same time, some leaders expect the new contest to be affected to a considerable extent by the use which the Federal Farm Board now being formed by the President makes of the $151,000,000 appropriation obtained from Congress for its initial effort looking to the relief and stabilization of agriculture.

Much of this sum probably will be expended in an effort to solve the wheat surplus situation. The satisfaction or dissatisfaction with which members of Congress view the results of that project is expected to have considerable influence on their conduct during the new debenture contest.

Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, meanwhile, is working out a plan to make the debenture provision more attractive to the House and also meet some of the objections raised by President Hoover through an amendment which would give the proceeds of debenture certificates to the Federal Farm Board rather than direct to exporters of agricultural commodities.

"In this way," he said, "the board would be justified in immediately raising the price of, say, wheat, the full amount of the debenture certificates, or 21 cents per bushel."

BODIES OF ALL BUT THREE WOMEN RECOVERED.

Folkestone, England, June 15 (AP).—The bodies of all but three women, believed, drowned yesterday in a crash of the giant air liner City of Ottawa off Dungeness while crossing the English Channel, have been recovered. One of the missing women, "Miss Roberts of London," was believed to be of American parentage. Seven died in the crash.

Search for those three bodies changed today from the cabin of the plane, which has been found in near here, to the scene of the crash. For hours the twisted metal ruins of the plane were searched in vain, although a member of the crew of the Belgian trawler which towed it inshore, though he saw two bodies in it.

It was revealed that the City of Ottawa had been in service since March, 1926, and had flown 260,000 miles. Yesterday's trip, if it had been completed, would have been its one thousandth channel crossing.

Reno, Nev., June 15 (AP).—Waiving all claim to alimony, Mrs. Henrietta Louise MacArthur obtained a divorce from Major General Douglas MacArthur, noted United States army officer and son of the late General Arthur MacArthur here yesterday. She alleged that General MacArthur had failed to provide her with the common needs of life.

General MacArthur was represented by an attorney, when asked if there was any case for the defendant the attorney replied "No case, your honor."

General MacArthur was commander of the Rainbow Division in France and later served with the army of occupation in Germany. He married Mrs. MacArthur at Palm Beach, Fla., February 14, 1922.

WATCHMAN FIRES INTO GROUP INJURING BOY

Chicago, June 15 (AP).—An 11-year-old boy, playing with a group of children about a school building under construction, was shot and seriously wounded late yesterday when the children refused to obey a watchman's commands to leave the building. The watchman, George Meservy, was arrested and charged with the shooting. Police were told he had fired one shot into the group.

After firing, and after the boy, Gus Kemlos, had fallen with a bullet in his neck, the watchman went to a small shed on the grounds. When the police arrived, a crowd of 200 persons was moving toward the shed where Meservy had barricaded himself.

Washington, June 15 (AP).—Prohibition Commissioner Doran, who conferred today with Palmer Canfield, administrator for the Northern New York district, said "there is too much beer of illegal alcoholic content being sold in the Albany district to suit me and because of this I am not satisfied with conditions there."

Doran said Canfield was summoned to Washington because reports of special agents showed unsatisfactory conditions in that area. "I am checking up with Mr. Canfield and going over the entire situation," he added. "I shall not take any action until I have made a thorough review of it and will act fairly toward everybody concerned."

Hot in East, Snow In California

New York, June 15 (AP).—Snow in California and sweltering temperatures in the midwest and east were shown by the weather map today.

Snow that fell throughout Sunday at Truckee and Lake Tahoe, Cal., covered the ground to a depth of four inches. The temperature hovered around the 34 degree mark.

The difference between the two coasts was shown further by the maximum temperatures of the two Portlands. Yesterday the Oregon City reported a high of 52 degrees, while at Portland, Me., the day's maximum was 89.

In New York city the heat wave continued unabated, the temperature reaching 88 degrees, causing the death of one person and the prostration of eleven.

Four Men Killed By Sewer Gas

Three Lost Their Lives in a Vain Attempt to Rescue Companion Who Had Ventured Into Manhole—Fifth Man in Critical Condition.

Lowell, Mass., June 15 (AP).—Four employees of the city sewer department were killed by sewer gas in a manhole today. Three of them lost their lives in a vain attempt to rescue a companion who had ventured into the manhole before them and had been overcome.

The dead are Frank Donahue, Thomas Fitzgerald, Hugh Roark and James Keene. A fifth man, Maurice Fitzgerald, was rescued, but is in a critical condition at St. John's Hospital, where physicians said he had slight chance of recovery.

The five men had been assigned to investigate complaints that sewer gas was escaping from the manhole, which is situated near the tannery of the American Hide and Leather Company.

Donahue, the first to enter the manhole, was immediately overcome. When his companions saw him collapse, Hugh Roark entered the manhole in an effort to save Donahue. Despite the deadly fumes, Roark struggled half way up the ladder with the unconscious man. Then he too, collapsed and both fell to the bottom of the ladder.

Fitzgerald, then Thomas Roark and finally Keene ventured in turn into the manhole in an attempt to bring out their companions but they also were overcome.

TWO NAVY TORPEDO MEN SET NEW MARK FOR DIVERS.

Washington, June 15 (AP).—A new mark for divers has been established by two navy torpedomen who, equipped only with mechanical "lungs," withstood a pressure of 155 pounds in a specially constructed diving tank.

This pressure is equivalent to a depth of 353 feet, which compares with the mark of 306 feet reached in actual diving by navy men in helmets and diving suits in 1915 while salvaging the American submarine F-4 off Honolulu.

Chief Torpedomen Kolliobsky and Hor, who underwent the latest tests, suffered no ill effects. The "lung" is the navy's new submarine escape device.

She received severe head lacerations, concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries. St. Mary's Hospital authorities said her condition was critical. Her son was uninjured.

Alis Webber, 55, driver of the truck, received severe lacerations.

Asks Border Residents to Help

Washington, June 15 (AP).—President Hoover today called upon the communities along the Canadian border to help the treasury to prevent the systematic war being waged by international criminals against the laws of this country.

The President said that he deeply deplored the killing of any person but the treasury was making a constant effort to prevent misuse of firearms.

Mr. Hoover expressed the opinion that all the trouble encountered in the enforcement of the law along the border was due to criminals who were trying to violate the law.

"I deeply deplore the killing of any person," the President said. "The treasury is making constant effort to prevent the misuse of firearms. I hope communities along the border will help the treasury to prevent the systematic war being waged by international criminals which I believe is the root of all our troubles." The President's statement was in answer to questions submitted by press correspondents about the killing of three persons by customs border patrols.

Stowaway Will Be Sent Home

Paris, June 15 (AP).—Arthur Schreiber of Portland, Me., who stowed away on the French transatlantic airplane Yellow Bird last Friday and made the flight to Spain, will be sent home on Thursday, aboard either the liner Leviathan or the President Harding.

New York, June 15 (AP).—Mrs. Walter P. Chrysler, wife of the automobile manufacturer, paid $3,762 customs penalties on French gowns and summer dresses which she failed to declare upon her recent return from Europe. It became known today.

Customs officials said they were not satisfied when she submitted a sworn declaration listing foreign purchases subject to a total duty of $56 and seized her luggage after a re-examination.

The domestic value of the gowns and dresses was fixed at $1,851.20 to which was added 100 per cent for failure to make a full declaration. Within 24 hours after the seizure, Mrs. Chrysler tendered a certified check for the full amount and the goods were released to her. The maximum penalty was imposed, customs men said, because there were no mitigating circumstances.

Highest Honor For French Fliers

Crew of Plane Resume Round of Receptions and Visits—Stowaway Begins to Get Uneasy as to What is Coming Out of Venture for Him.

Paris, June 15 (AP).—The crew of the transatlantic monoplane Yellow Bird will be received at the Chamber of Deputies, the Senate and the Hotel de Ville tomorrow, the highest honor a Frenchman can receive.

Of all these honors a reception today by Mr. Laurent Eynac, air minister, is probably the one that gives the fliers the greatest satisfaction. The minister had refused to encourage or recognize the Yellow Bird's attempt.

It was only at the last minute, when the fliers' arrival was a matter of an hour or so, that the minister decided he could no longer refuse to give official recognition to the success. Today's visit does not mean that the government has changed its viewpoint as to transatlantic flights by other than water planes, but it amounts to official recognition of the fliers' performance.

In fact the air minister will recommend to President Doumergue that Jean Assolant and Rene LeFevre, pilot and navigator of the plane, be awarded the decoration of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

The crew of the plane today resumed their round of receptions and visits while Arthur Schreiber of Portland, Me., their stowaway, went out to get measured for a full dress suit. He still is treated more or less as a member of the crew though by force of circumstances his share in the festivities is detached and occasionally embarrassing.

The airmen themselves continue to treat him with great kindness, but other people are less inclined to consider that his proper place is alongside them when they are receiving honors.

Bidding for his story or for his services on the stage or in the movies has begun to lag so much that he is beginning to get uneasy as to what is coming out of the venture for him.

Varied Cases in Police Court

There was a varied assortment of cases brought to the attention of Judge Shufeldt in police court today. Charles Davis of St. Mary's street, arrested for lighting firecrackers and throwing them at other children, was given a suspended sentence, and his father was warned to see that the youth did not attempt to discharge any more firecrackers before the Fourth.

Michael E. Cawley of Highland, arrested for parking his car on the crosswalk on Broadway at Field Court, gave bail for his appearance later.

Marie Wolf of Rosendale Heights, arrested on complaint of Johanna Selchow of the town of Ulster who charged her with assault in the third degree, alleged to have been committed on Broadway, had her hearing adjourned.

Hyman Barnett of Jackson Heights, L. I., arrested for parking his car on the crosswalk on Broadway at Field Court, received a suspended sentence.

William Schweitzer, John E. Duffy, Raymond Houlahan, and Frank Schermerhorn, arrested on a warrant sworn out by Richard Bruck, who charged them with assaulting him, were discharged when Bruck withdrew the charge.

Lincoln Crosby and Lawrence were given a suspended sentence.

Artem Brown of Ann street, arrested for public intoxication, was given five days in jail.

Lawrence Von Goedicke, arrested for parking his New Paltz bus more than six feet from the curb on Broadway, and blocking traffic, pleaded not guilty and the hearing was adjourned to Monday.

Fire Destroys Residence.

The residence of Levi Calhoun at Pang Yang in the town of Lioyd was destroyed by fire Monday morning about 5:30 o'clock. The cause of the fire is unknown. Mr. Calhoun and family were awakened by the crackling of the flames and at the time the roof was practically consumed. A few minutes after the family left the building the roof fell in.

Recounting the prior rights of the people of the town of Woodstock to use water from the streams above the village of Woodstock, the Division of Water Power and Control of the Conservation Commission has granted the application of the city of Kingston to acquire an additional source of water supply, for increasing storage at Cooper Lake, for construction of the Mink Hollow conduits and Cooper Lake conduits, for constructing Blinnewater equalizing reservoir and for reinforcing the distribution system of the city, but has granted the application subject to conditions which protect the rights of the town of Woodstock, particularly the village of Woodstock to use the water.

This reservation of the rights of the Woodstock village people is expressed very strongly in the decision handed down by the commission.

In granting the order the commission denies the request of the village of Woodstock to connect with the Kingston water main for the purposes and also states that as the water which will flow through the village of Woodstock in the main will not be potable, the commission forbids the making of any taps or connections or the supplying of any water in the village except with its further consent and approval.

This is done for the reason that all filter plants are located below the village of Woodstock and the water which will flow through the village will be unfit for domestic purposes.

Application was made to the commission by the Kingston water commissioners on January 5 of this year and after two hearings at which considerable testimony was taken and argument of counsel was had the commission considered the application and has now handed down its decision.

Development of Water Works.
In a memorandum in which the development of the Kingston water works from 1853 to date is reviewed, the commission says:

"The city of Kingston proposes to continue the use of Sawkill and Mink Hollow creeks as sources of water supply but proposes to alter the system to enable it to carry out the following: 'From Mink Hollow stream the city desires the right to take all of the flow with the exception of one-half million gallons per day.'"

"From the Sawkill the city asks leave that it have the privilege to take at a point in the Upper Sawkill near Shady a supply equal to the average five million gallons per day, except that no water will be taken from the stream when the natural flow therein is less than one-half million gallons per day."

"The city asks leave, temporarily, to divert from the Sawkill, at a point below the crossing of the state road over that stream, an amount not in excess of two million gallons per day."

"It was intimated that the use of the existing storage and diverting reservoirs on the Sawkill (reservoirs Nos. 1 and 2) would be discontinued."

Woodstock's Objections.
"The town of Woodstock objected to this project in order to assure that the prospective needs of that town, and more particularly the hamlet of Woodstock, for sources of water supply be duly protected. George Nelson, George Elwyn and Victor Lasker, taxpayers in the town of Woodstock, objected on similar grounds and also on account of the alleged reduction of water available for fire fighting purposes due to decreased flow in the Sawkill through that village. They subsequently asked the commission to direct the city to install 25 fire hydrants within the hamlet of Woodstock."

The Martin Canine Company, Inc., and Duane's Milk Paper Company, Inc., at Saugerties also objected.

In the memorandum the commission stated its opinion that the proposed project is a great improvement over the present system and should therefore be granted with minor changes.

Woodstock's Rights Superior.

In connection with the rights of the village of Woodstock the memorandum says: "The inhabitants of the town of Woodstock undoubtedly have a right to be supplied with water from these watersheds which is superior to that of the people of Kingston and must be carefully safeguarded. Our approval of this application should contain conditions which will permit any community on these watersheds above the intakes to

Banker Scores Prohibition

One Great Cause of Troubles of Farmers, he Says, Pointing Out Loss of Markets and Loss of Taxation Receipts as Elements.

Troy, N. Y., June 17.—Harrington, one of the most prominent bankers in the United States today, pointed out the loss of markets and loss of taxation receipts as elements of the trouble of farmers, when he addressed a convention here, when he attacked prohibition as partly responsible for the plight of American farmers. Harrington, president of the New York State Bankers' Association, in his address here, when he attacked prohibition as partly responsible for the plight of American farmers, pointed out the loss of markets and loss of taxation receipts as elements of the trouble of farmers.

"That prohibition destroyed overnight a legitimate market for a tremendous amount of grain, fruit and hops that had been used in distilleries and breweries."

"That prohibition wiped out a major source of government revenue in excise taxes on the beverage industry and trade, and made it necessary to increase other taxes to make up for the lost revenue, thus further burdening the farmer, along with all other classes of the population."

"That many millions of dollars a year are being wasted by the government in an ineffectual attempt to enforce prohibition, further increasing the burden on the farmer and every taxpayer."

Now president of the Plaza Trust Company of New York, famed as the government counsel in the "money trust" investigation of some years ago, former assistant district attorney and Democratic county chairman of Steuben county as well as one-time police commissioner of Corning, N. Y., ex-president of a large bank in Utica, and incoming president of the Uptown Bankers' Association of New York city, although he started as a farm boy in Steuben county only 12 years ago, Mr. Cahill today added this chapter to the speech with which he had opened the 36th annual convention of the New York state bankers here yesterday.

"Every banker must of necessity be interested in the agricultural problem which is receiving much attention but is still a long way removed from a sound solution," he began. "Here we have a peculiar situation. Our city populations are constantly growing, thus increasing the source of demand for food products, while the farm populations are constantly decreasing, thus diminishing the supply, and yet the farmers are actually suffering because they cannot raise and sell their commodities at profitable prices."

"The farm problem is essentially one which should receive the thoughtful consideration and constructive assistance of every banker. The farm is the basic industry of the country; therefore, the prosperity or adversity of the farmer affects every community directly, and naturally, the banks in that community. I am going to discuss just two problems which have a direct effect upon the agricultural community. The first of these is the question of the loss of markets and loss of taxation receipts as elements of the trouble of farmers. The second is the question of the loss of markets and loss of taxation receipts as elements of the trouble of farmers."

The adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment and the resulting passage of the Volstead Act wiped out the legitimate market for a tremendous amount of grain, fruit and hops that had been used in distilleries and breweries. When you appreciate the tremendous amount of wheat, corn, barley, rye, grapes and other fruits consumed by the nation before the passage of the Volstead Act, then realize that these markets disappeared overnight, how can you conclude that prohibition did not affect the farmer's condition seriously? This is one of the real causes for the farm surplus you hear so much about from our politicians.

"When you consider, further, the vast sums of money that were collected by the government from the manufacturers in the form of excise taxes and then realize that prohibition destroyed entirely that source of revenue, and then add to this sum the many millions of dollars wasted by the government in its ineffectual attempt to enforce prohibition, is it to be wondered at that in order to make up such a tremendous deficiency it is necessary for the Federal, State and Municipal Governments to increase the farmers' taxes as well as other taxes?"

"And what is the ultimate result achieved? Prohibition has seriously injured the farmer by wiping out one of his greatest markets. It has added to his burdens by increasing his taxes, even though many farmers don't appreciate these facts yet. It has created untold graft, a disrespect for law and increasing intemperance to the detriment of our country, socially, economically and morally. And yet many of our well-meaning citizens, who mistake prejudice for principle, still have the temerity to claim that this is entirely a moral problem and they refuse to recognize or admit these serious and growing evils and economic losses brought about by prohibition."

"I am not in favor of the saloon or intemperance, but I do express the hope, here and now, that our intelligent citizens, including bankers, in the near future will have the vision, ability and courage to force replacement of the wishbones of our legislators with real backbones, to the end that they may appreciate the fact that prohibition is both political and economic problem which intelligence alone must solve."

"When the solution of that problem comes, and it will come, our country, our state and our people will be not only more temperate but on a higher plane socially, morally, economically and financially."

Distorted Evidence

No amount of statistical evidence, distorted in an effort to mislead the public, can disprove government figures showing the gain of Lucky Strike to be greater than the combined increase of all other cigarettes. The public will be served and this is proof, indeed, that regardless of price, you actually get more in Lucky Strike than any other cigarette can offer. Its perfect blend of fine tobaccos gives pure smoking delight. Its exclusive, secret toasting process guarantees the tobaccos free from irritants and impurities and, in the opinion of 20,679* physicians, makes Lucky Strike less irritating than other cigarettes.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 18, 1929.

NO APPLAUSE THIS TIME.

No doubt many an American has congratulated himself on his good fortune in not residing within fifty miles of the Canadian border line. That narrow 3,600-mile strip is dangerous territory. If the innocent motorist is when ordered on a lonely road at night, he may find himself in the clutches of bandits; and if he tries to get away, he may be shot by suspicious enforcement of officers who conceivably rely on official protection when they recklessly make such mistakes.

Another innocent motorist has been shot dead. The Associated Press dispatches relate that Henry Virkula, a 41-year-old merchant of Big Falls, Minn., was driving toward his home with his wife and two children at 11:30 Saturday night, June 8. Near Little Fork, six or seven miles from the Canadian border he was ordered to stop by two customs inspectors. These claim that he did not stop, but Virkula's wife asserts that he had no time to stop. In any case, "before the car had traveled another ten feet" the inspectors opened fire with sawed-off shotguns. The automobile "was dented with shot in twenty-six places" and one shot pierced Virkula's neck. An examination showed that the car contained no liquor. Virkula was then taken to a hospital, where a surgeon pronounced him dead.

Some weeks ago there was applause in the House of Representatives at the news that in Washington a patrolman had shot dead a young man believed to be driving a liquor-loaded truck. But when the news of the killing of Mr. Virkula was received the dyes of the House refrained from applause, possibly because of the unpleasant recollection of the widespread singing criticism that followed their extraordinary behavior on the previous occasion.

VIRGINIA'S LOSS.

Discussing Virginia's loss of one member of Congress under the reapportionment of representation, giving her but nine members, the Richmond Times-Dispatch laments:

But, worse than that, Virginia's voting strength in the House will be proportionately less than ever before. When the state's representation was reduced to nine by the first census taken after the war between the states, those nine members composed slightly more than one-third-second of the House's total. Now nine members would constitute but one-fortieth of the total, whereas the proportion of the present ten members is one to forty-three. How the mighty has fallen is shown by the fact that until after 1810 Virginia had more Congressmen than any other state, and one-sixth of the total voting strength of the House.

How great has been the shift in numerical strength can be realized the more vividly when we recall that in 1793 Virginia had more than twice the population of New York and nearly twice the population of Pennsylvania. And in those earlier times Virginia was all the more able to play a leading—almost a dominating—part through her production of such great and ever-memorable statesmen. But even in her present comparatively low estate Virginia may find some measure of consolation in the fact that ability, experience and length of service are more influential in Washington than mere numbers. The small states of Idaho and Montana, with their Senators Borah and Walsh, are in a sense more powerful than some of the thickly-populated states with a much larger membership.

TREATING GOITRE.

As you know, the higher up in the air you go, the lower becomes the pressure of the atmosphere, and this fact has been used in the treatment of severe cases of goitre.

Dr. H. Lax tells us that he experimented with forty patients by placing them in a room for four hours daily, where the atmospheric pressure was the same as it would be on a mountain of 3,260 feet.

He placed two patients in a room at a time, and so arranged the ventilation that the lower atmospheric pressure was maintained.

In order to get the patients used to the treatment, the atmospheric pressure was not lowered at first. As the patients became used to remaining in the room the pressure was gradually lowered.

The treatment was continued from three to four weeks. As a result, twenty-nine of the forty patients showed a marked improvement.

Fourteen patients had no subsequent complaints whatever, even nine months after the treatment.

Adding up the number of hours that these patients spent in the lowered pressure it would equal about three and one-half days.

However, three and one-half days in the mountains would not improve the condition of a patient to the same degree as by the use of the room with lowered pressure.

Dr. Lax states that the frequent change between high and low pressure that is by going in and out of the lowered pressure room—45 more effective than the uninterrupted low pressure of the mountains.

Now this knowledge is worth something because of the great number of cases of exophthalmic goitre which may be helped.

As you know, the nervous symptoms are alarming to the patient, his family, and to the physician also. When the heart symptoms become too severe it means an operation for removal of a part of the thyroid gland.

This operation is naturally dreaded by all concerned, although it is not nearly as dangerous as in former years due to improved treatment before, during, and after the operation.

Kingston's "Recessional" was temporarily barred because of its phrase "and lesser breeds without the law." Kingling refused to alter the line, but the demand for the hymn is so great that it will be restored anyway. "The hymn is lying in the West" came under ban because its music has a good deal of rhythm. That objection, too, has been overruled by popular demand. The hymn book committee doesn't have an easy task. That fact came to light as soon as the work of revision started. Hymns are a live issue even in this part of the world.

The influence of the modern kitchen is indeed far-reaching. It is said that logs are now shipped three months earlier than they used to be so that hams will be small enough for the diminutive kitchenette oven and roasting pan. Canned and boxed edibles are sold in smaller containers than formerly. This is a good or bad development, according to the point of view. There was a time when the large kitchen was inevitable, regardless of the size of the family.

Many housewives have walked needless miles and used excessive amounts of fuel to feed a family that could have been adequately fed in the modern, compact kitchenette, with real economy both of materials and energy. To the present generation there is something fascinating and romantic in large open fireplaces, huge wood ranges and big kitchens lined with acres of shelf space. That fascination may lie in the rareness of such spectacles. The doll-house equipment of the modern housewife would probably have looked fascinating and romantic to our pioneer great-grandmothers.

Chapter 44

"WHO IS DILLON?"

STARED unbelievably at the cluster of gold on the end of the ribbon. Married? I had lost her! It seemed to me that Jerry gave me a look of anger at Jerry gave me release. He must have felt the wind of its coming.

"I know what you are going to say, Uncle John," he poured forth in grief-stricken tones. "I'm a cad to have done such a thing! I don't blame you. Dad dead and not buried—this murder charge hanging over my head—it was a beastly thing to do! Get it out of your system. It's coming to me, God knows!"

Wistful but still defiant, Lucy kissed her uncle, asked forgiveness.

"Oh, Jerry!" Lucy cried distressfully. And then, so gently that my anger softened: "It isn't coming to you! Please keep quiet while I tell him about it, dear."

Her dark eyes, tender, earnest, yet unafraid, held mine.

"Jerry is trying to shield me. It was entirely my fault. He didn't know about his father until this morning. We started back as soon as I told him."

"You didn't tell him until this morning!" I exclaimed incredulously.

"If I had told him when I found him he wouldn't have married me."

"Hardly!" Jerry mumbled.

"You young idiots!" I roared, recovering myself. "Couldn't you have waited until this thing was cleared up?"

"Don't you see?" Lucy said patiently. "If a man doesn't need a wife when he's in trouble, when does he need one?"

"Oh!" I gasped. I felt as if I hadn't known Lucy until this moment.

"You always said I was a funny little thing, Uncle John, but you've been such a dear!" She kissed me and I began to melt like butter.

"Jerry was in serious trouble. If he should be arrested I wanted my right to stand by him to be a legal one. You've always taught me to think things out for myself and what I did seemed right. It nearly broke my heart to deceive him. You—you won't scold us, will you, Uncle John?"

Scold them! How could I? Clever Lucy! She had known what she was doing when she made Jerry tell his story first. It was a splendid thing she had done, marrying a man with a murder charge over his head, even though she believed him innocent; but it was the sort of romantic, audacious, illogical thing Lucy would do.

"It was fine of you, dear," I told her gently, pressing her lightly to me. "Jerry, if you ever fall with a girl of yours I'll take you apart with a jackknife."

"I hope you will, Uncle John," he mumbled earnestly. "Lucy is too fine for me. And she's trying to make it easy for me, but—well, I can't help feeling that I failed dad. He told me to stay; there until he came. When Lucy told me about him—this morning—on top of what I'd done—it pretty nearly finished me."

Henry raised a hand, grinding. "All right, John. They are forgiven. I suppose he was thinking of his imprisonment behind my poor door. 'Let's get back to Dillon.'"

"Dillon, yes!" Jerry exploded. "Dillon's our man. Do you know who he is?"

"Quietly, my boy," I protested. "Tell me: you were wearing white fannels Friday night?"

"Yes. But I changed into these khaki duds before I left."

"Where?"

"In that little room off the library."

"And you left your fannels in that room?"

"Yes."

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

The boy suddenly dropped his head into his hands. Lucy ran over to him and put her arms around him.

"He didn't want to come away," Lucy said tenderly, "but I told him I'd stay until he did—and that he didn't love me—and that if he didn't want me then he needn't have me over."

"Didn't want you?" Jerry burst forth, lifting his head and seizing her shoulders. And with this he kissed her very competently indeed.

"When she said she'd stay down there until I changed my mind—Oh, damn it, Uncle John! what could I do? I gave Jerry $20 to keep his eye on the mine—and what was in it. I hoped we'd be back the next day, but the sandstorm held us up most of the night. That's all."

"Furie earned his $20," I said grimly. "Don't feel too badly, son. I imagine most of us would have done the same under the circumstances. Eh, what, Henry?" and I turned to Deacon.

"Young fool!" he growled. "I suppose it's the sort of thing that's done nowadays."

I chuckled reminiscently. "So I'm told. But if I remember rightly, the young lady who became Mrs. Deacon wouldn't have you unless you eloped with her in the romantic manner."

Wistful but still defiant, Lucy kissed her uncle, asked forgiveness.

"Oh, Jerry!" Lucy cried distressfully. And then, so gently that my anger softened: "It isn't coming to you! Please keep quiet while I tell him about it, dear."

church members are sentimental about hymns. When the United Church was formed in Canada, it was necessary to compile a new hymn book. Selections were made from the regular hymnals of the three denominations that were uniting. Some hymns had to be dropped, to keep the book down to a reasonable size. Now the Hymn Book Committee of the General Council is hearing from church groups all over the Dominion. All the missing hymns appear to have been favorites of one group or another. Some of the hymns were originally omitted because of phrases which offended some individuals.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Tennis Stars Now Set the Fashion on the Courts.

New York—Tennis has become something more than a sport—it is a fashion. Galleries are dressed in their best and the players are keen to the advantage a smart costume gives them in the eyes of the assembled multitude. Helen Wills, Senorita Alvarez and some of the French players have contributed a good deal to court fashion. White still remains the preference, but color is worn rather more than formerly.

The really good tennis dress is made with matching panties, for skirts are distinctly full. The practice of wearing socks rather than stockings is not frowned upon, and of course the sleeveless dress is never seen in a more appropriate environment than on the courts.

Tennis Frock of Capucine Orange Flat Crepe, With the Neckline Border, Simulated Tie and Simulated Belt Consisting of Encrustations of Light Green Flat Crepe. The Skirt Secures Its Fullness From Groups of Double Pleats.

(Copyright, 1929, by Fairchild.)

Cotton, always in good taste for tennis, even when it is not otherwise in fashion, is quite naturally in use this year, when any excuse to get into cotton is taken by women who delight in change. Pique is the tennis champion among fabrics, and may be white or colored, cut in two sections or one. Bright blazers and gay jackets rival sweaters somewhat this season.

That tennis frocks are cut away at the back is a foregone conclusion. No fact that ever fastened itself upon society has been taken up with more avidity than the sun tan cult. When one wears stockings they wear those that create an illusion of browned skin, and among the smartest are in list net of mesh effects.

The beret Basque is the smartest tennis headgear.

Flour Bags Make Neat House Frocks, Aprons

Housewives went out with the air of the dressing sack and bonnet cap. The up-to-date woman is as smartly dressed for her working hours as for pleasure, and no less becomingly.

The house frock shown here, for example, meets all the requirements of simplicity, smartness and freedom of movement.

Dainty House Frock and Apron Made From Flour Bags.

movement. It also meets the slender pocketbook since it can be made for little or nothing at home. The materials required are four empty flour bags and four yards of bias tape. A patent-leather or suede belt is a smart accessory and can be used on any number of other frocks besides, or a narrow belt of contrasting material can be made.

The bags you probably have in the house from flour bought for home baking, or almost any baker will sell them for a few cents apiece. First you will want to take out the stamping, and that is not a difficult task. Many women prefer to do this by covering the inked places with lard or soaking them in kerosene for a few hours and then washing in warm water. This flour bag material takes an excellent dye, so that with a little effort, one may have her favorite shade of green, blue or rose, with bias binding in some effective contrasting color.

In cutting such a pattern as this out of flour bags, it will be necessary to have a seam across the shoulder. A smart effect is obtained by binding the front edge of the shoulders and then stitching it down to the back edge.

The clever apron also shown can be made from the same material. This style requires a little more work than a straight slip-over model, but its additional attractiveness well repays one. The circular skirt is scalloped top and bottom and bound with colored bias tape, as are the pocket, armholes and neck and straps. A corn yellow with black, light green with lavender, light with dark blue, are a few of the effective color schemes which may be obtained by dyeing the flour bags.

Offer Sports Costumes in Many Smart Designs

A new tennis ensemble consists of a jumper with Vionnet seaming in a manner to insure absolute freedom of motion, and a sleeveless slip-on sweater. This latter is made with a notched collar, small slit pockets and a peaked bottom. Both are made of jersey and come in bright colors only. Stripes and plaids are used in one or the other, either the jumper or jacket remaining plain for contrast.

Smart little jackets to wear with either the sports frock or semiformal sports frocks are to be found in dapper styles. Even the fabrics seem to carry out the smart impression, for they range from cotton pique and ombre striped flannel, to quilted silks, with all-over designs in conservative patterns.

Velveteen in purple, all the soft green shades, marine blue, brown and black, is the most popular material for it can be worn with a greater variety of frocks. These little jackets are finished with simple turn-over collars, strictly mannish ones, and the tuxedo-shawl collar. Some are made in double breasted styles, others finished with a single button or double link. All the better ones except those in cotton pique and corduroy are lined with silk in a neutral shade.

Hem Lines Are Flattering to Unattractive Legs

Animated hem lines are flattering to the legs and should be worn by every woman whose legs are not models of beauty. Even one wide plait helps a little, a circular skirt is better, the plaited all-around skirt is best of all. This means more money for pressing. But it is worth it for those with legs too thin, too fat or too muscular. The straight definite hem line of a coat emphasizes the defects in leg contours. An inch or two of soft lively skirt below the coat is better.

Back Treatment of Ruffles and Flounces Characterize Formal Paris Gowns

Clever Back Treatments Continue to Intrigue Us.

New York—An amusing story of a woman who was asked to leave the beach at Palm Beach because of the depth to which her bathing suit was cut at the back, was told a few days ago. The humor lay in the fact that this year when the censored lady returned, her décolletage was discreet compared to those being worn, and what is more stockings, here-to-for a Palm Beach necessity, had been eliminated. All this seems to have slight bearing on a yarn spun around evening dresses, but it was suggested of course by the extremes to which such dresses have gone. To make matters more extreme, shoulder straps have been dwindling to a mere nothing. A tiny strap buckled with rhinestones on either shoulder is one version of the new evening frock.

The use of transparent, as well as panne velvet for summer gowns is worth recording although the average woman seems content to wear chiffons, and tulle, with occasional laces and taffeta at this season, leaving the more formal silks until later. The introduction of printed satin in an already long entry of fashionable fabrics must also be recorded, and the rumors of metalized, or lame materials which are wafted from overseas may be the decisive note in determining what fabric to select for your new evening gown.

Slippers, which are nearly always of the plain opera pump variety have a fascinating habit of matching the frock with which they are worn, instead of being gold or silver. Evening wraps are comparatively short, often minus fur, and while they reflect the character of the frock they are usually foreign in tone.

I Owe My Present Good Health To Dr. French's Nu-Erb

High Falls Resident Tells How It Rid Him Of Backache, Stomach Disorders And Neuritis.

"For the first time in ten years, I am free from stomach disorders and severe pains of neuritis and because I owe my new feeling of health to Dr. French's Nu-Erb. I am only too glad to give my statement so that others may know about this wonderful medicine," said Mr. William Sheely, well-known farmer of High Falls, N. Y. (Near Kingston).

"Before using this medicine, I was in continual misery and distress because of indigestion and severe pains through my stomach. My back ached continually, my kidneys were apparently in a weakened condition and I suffered from shooting pains through my limbs. I was also troubled with burning, gnawing pains of neuritis and headaches that lasted for days at a time.

"I had used so many different medicines without getting any relief that I was frankly discouraged with them all, but after reading so much about the Nu-Erb, I decided to give it a trial and it was a lucky day for me that I did, for it has actually made a new man out of me. I can eat just anything I want now and never know that I have a stomach. The pains across my back and the pains of neuritis have entirely disappeared. My limbs are more limber and stronger than they have been for years and I am also free from those distressing headaches. I can highly recommend Nu-Erb and will gladly do so to anybody who is suffering from similar troubles."

McKee Drug Store, 312 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Dr. French's Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Even occasional pains in the joints should be investigated, especially in persons past middle life. The condition of the teeth are important factors in this regard, and the function of the kidneys should also be looked into.

The local firemen will be accompanied by the Caribou Fire and Drum Corps of Newburgh. The firemen expect to go in private cars, furnished by members of the company and other citizens of the village.

CHILDREN'S DAY EXERCISES AT RONDOUT PRESBYTERIAN

The annual Children's Day exercises of the Sunday school of the Rondout Presbyterian Church were held Sunday morning in the church, and proved exceptionally fine. The pupils met in the Sunday school and marched into the church which had been artistically decorated for the occasion. The program that had been arranged was given excellently by the youthful pupils. Those who recited were Geraldine Lowe, John McCullough, Emily Landers, Billy Darling and David Palmer. Betty Rowland, Stanley Abbott, Elizabeth Cline, Jean May, Emily Cragan and Donald Van Dusen. One of the finest things on the program was the missionary dramatization, "The Wishing Thread," given by a number of the younger pupils. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, gave a most interesting address on "The Older Americans' Gift to the Newer Americans" which was illustrated with a number of Indian relics that he had collected, including stone axe heads and arrow heads. The singing of the school was led by Thomas Rowland and the choir also rendered a fine musical program.

TREMPER JOINS STAFF OF LONGENDYKE & MARTIN, INC.

The many friends of Roy A. Tremper, salesman and manager for Forsyth & Davis Motor Co., will be pleased to hear that he has severed his connection with that firm and is now affiliated with Longendyke & Martin, Inc., local distributors for the Marmon and Roosevelt line of straight eight motor cars.

In a recent interview, Mr. Tremper stated that business conditions generally and the increasing popularity of straight eight motors with the buying public made this change not only necessary but highly desirable. With a favorable record for honesty and fair dealing behind him, Mr. Tremper now feels that he is still better equipped to serve the public in a most satisfactory manner.

There were many members, each with a bouquet of flowers, present.

Cases where the defendants have been admitted to bail will be permitted to go over until fall unless some special condition exists which makes it necessary to press trial at this time. This is the usual custom at the June term of county court on account of the difficulty of securing jurors to try cases.

Reserving Space At Exposition

Booth space at the forthcoming parents' Exposition is being reserved rapidly by the merchants and manufacturers of the city while the automobile division will undoubtedly be enlarged if the present plans of the committee, who are working with the automobile dealers association, are completed. It was the intention of the committee to use a tent for the automobile show 200 feet long, but this cannot accommodate the many dealers who are members of the association.
The contestants in the Kingston's Favorite Daughter Election are calling on the merchants and manufacturers interesting them in booth space and are greatly enthused over the reception that they are receiving from the majority of the merchants.
As soon as all space has been completely reserved the committee states that they will have published in an advertisement in The Freeman the names of the merchants and class of merchandise to be exhibited.
Several of the candidates in the Kingston's Favorite Daughter Election are planning to take part in the freemen's state convention at Troy on Thursday. In this election Miss Nellie Elmendorf representing the Farm Bureau is in the lead with Miss Ella Johnson of the Fessenden Shirt Company, second, Miss Leona Vandemark of the Universal Road Machinery Company third.
In the Industries' Boy contest Joseph Dume is still in the lead with 21,850 votes with William Israel second, 20,860 votes. Raymond Houghtaling third, 28,810.
In the Baby Pageant Josephine Wiedner leads in the first division baby girls. Dolores Perry leads in the second division baby girls. Ada-Bell Markle not only leads in her division but in all baby girl divisions. Clarence H. Constable leads in the first division baby boys. Mervin DeGraff leads in the second division baby boys and Kenneth A. Dryson, Jr., not only leads in his division but has the highest vote total in all divisions, male and female.

ONCE.....on a shilling NOW...
Long ago, the pine tree image was the symbol of sterling—of genuineness—on America's first coin, the Pine Tree Shilling. Today, this quaint old symbol has inspired a glorious new pattern in silver. And appearing on the back of each lovely piece, it says solid silver—once again—unmistakably.
